

NEWS RELEASE
May 28, 2008

MEDIA CONTACT: Kathy Parsons
Communications Officer
562.570.3654

Dynamic New Website Puts Employment Information at Your Fingertips www.pacificgatewayworkforce.com

First time job seekers, baby-boomers considering a second career, business owners, and academics in need of up-to-date labor market information can now find the information they need on-line at Pacific Gateway Workforce Investment Network's new web site, www.pacificgatewayworkforce.com.

"In addition to providing the numerous career pathways, and preparation and placement opportunities in our area, we've compiled the best labor/industry web resources to complement those pathways on our new site. On our innovative www.pacificgatewayworkforce.com site you can explore, plan, research labor market information, and job search - all in one location," said Bryan Rogers, the Pacific Gateway Workforce Investment Network's Executive Director.

The Pacific Gateway Workforce Investment Network is about preparing adults and youth, through training and education, to work in high-demand, high-growth industry sectors so that they are not just getting a job, they are advancing their potential. For those job seekers, and for area employers, our easy to access web information includes the following topics:

Training and Education

The wide variety of education and training programs the Network, its education partners, the local One-Stop Career Centers, and others provide in key industries – goods movement and logistics; construction and building trades; clean technologies and the environment; advanced manufacturing; energy and utilities production; and healthcare – are spelled-out for residents to make decisions.

Hire-A-Youth

Specific opportunities through the Network's Hire-A-Youth Program and its Youth Opportunity Center are covered on the site to help young persons to get educated, get experienced, and get employed.

Career Pathways Information

Extensive information on current high-demand, high-growth industry sectors puts career exploration, planning, and job searching assistance at one site.

Labor Market Information

The latest Labor Market Analysis/Research on high demand – high growth industries has been compiled and organized with the links from the best labor/industry websites in the nation. Extensive information on key sector industries: Construction Trades, Transportation and Utilities, Professional Business Services, Manufacturing, Education and Health Services, Leisure and Hospitality, Law Enforcement and Government is just a click away. This easy to use site will be a must-have reference for business, academics, and job seekers.

(more)

562.570.WORK • 800.292.7200 • FAX 562.570.3704

3447 Atlantic Avenue, Long Beach, CA 90807 • pacificgatewayworkforce.com

ADMINISTERED BY:

Business Services

Business owners can find recruitment solutions, training solutions, layoff aversion assistance, rapid response to layoffs, and - to save money - hiring tax credits – all within their reach at a time convenient to them.

Job Search

On-line training and job-seeking opportunities means the job search can be done from any computer at any time

Job Seeker Calendar

Timely information on how to access the Network's off-line services is easy to access. The calendar shows actual dates of workshops, such as resume development and interviewing skills, and, with one click, the workshop's description and location.

Updates to Stay Connected

Job-seekers, businesses and partners can stay connected to information updates and new opportunities by subscribing to the web site's E-Notify alert system

The Pacific Gateway Workforce Investment Network serves a workforce of more than one-half million people in its connected communities of Lomita, Long Beach, Signal Hill, Torrance, San Pedro, Wilmington, Harbor City and the Harbor Gateway Area; www.pacificgatewayworkforce.com connects them all by providing information vital to job seekers and employers.